School Level Information Below is a suggested timeline for writing the essay.

All 4th -12th grade students enrolled in an English course will be assigned the essay as a class grade. This essay will count as one of the required essays for this semester. All high school students who are not enrolled in an English course but would like the opportunity to participate should be given a copy of the Essay Contest Rules and Official Guidelines.

- February 2016-March 2016
- The E/LA or Social Studies teacher will allow the students to view the MLK “I Have a Dream” speech as they follow along with the text of the speech
- The E/LA or Social Studies teacher will allow the students to discuss major points from the text (annotate text) and speech using graphic organizers
- The E/LA teachers will discuss the rubric and essay prompt as it pertains to writing the essay.
- The E/LA teachers will then allow the students’ time to write the essay throughout the month of February. The essay can be written during school time and at home. The teacher may designate a part of a day in the week for students to write the essay. (EX: the last 20 minutes of each Thursday). Students can bring in external sources or research information as needed.
- Teachers should collect all essays before the end of March 2016.
- March, 2016-April 2016
- The teachers should have remarks and notations of errors along with a score on all student essays. The essays should be returned to students by March 20, 2016.
- The students will have until mid-April 2016 to rewrite their essays.
- Teachers should rescore all essays and then choose the top essay from each grade level. The principal and his/her designee will choose the top essay from each grade span within the school (4-5, 6-8, 9-12). The winning essay(s) should be submitted with the specifications listed. All winning essays should be submitted to Angela McClary-Rush, English/Language Arts Coordinator, by April 22, 2016. Essays will be judged by local business and elected leaders. District level winners will be notified by April 30.

School level winners will each receive a certificate, and a monetary award.
